The Vidalia Onion is certainly unique in all the world. The sugar content of this onion is comparable to that of an apple, or a bottle of cola. It's a mild, succulent onion that is delicious raw on hamburgers, sliced alongside your steak, in a garden salad, or just eaten raw. It doesn't have the "burn" of your average onion, is low in calories, and is even said to aid in digestion.

Onions are usually marketed in two sizes.

The jumbo size onions are at least 3 inches in diameter.

The medium onion is just a little smaller, between 2 and 3 inches.
